The Dog Crop in Chaska.

We notice by our exchanges that there is a surplus of worthless dogs, in their respective localities. Ye reporter, took a stroll of four blocks the other afternoon just to see how the dog crop panned out here.

Here are the figures as computed by the "rule of three" according to our Dabols: 1st block 271 on the street and several hundred more barking on the alleys; 2d block,

100 in sight, with several dozen chained up in the back yards; 3d block, 112 amusing themselves in the street; this does not include those connected with eight dog fighting in the public square. 4th block, one this was an astonishing to us, but learned upon investigation that this lonely dog was a thoroughbred the only one of the kind in town. This is a report of only four blocks, and leave it to our readers to compute the number of dogs in the 78 blocks of our village. However we have come to the conclusion, by our short investigation, that Chaska is blessed with our share of the worthless things.

A New Bakery.

Gottlieb Eder has concluded to go out of the Saloon business, and is engaged building a first class

Bake oven, and will open a first class Bakery and Confectionary on or about the first of May next, at his present stand south of the Minneapolis Depot.

Mr. Eder learned the Bakers profession in Germany, and has carried on the business since a boy up to within the last 8 or 10 years. He will deliver bread every morning at your door. He will also make a specialty of furnishing outfits for wedding parties, balls, &c. This is filling a want long felt in Chaska, and our citizens should support him to a family, as he has invested all his earnings in this enterprise, and it is our duty to support home institutions.

ELECTING SENATORS.

representative Little, of Ohio, formerly attorney general of that state, was asked for his views on his proposed amendment to the constitution for the election of senators by the people. He said:

cleanness. It had able and distinguished advocacy in the convention which framed the constitution. Mr. Mason, of Pennsylvania, urged the strict election principle with great force, and Gen. Hamilton supported it.

He thought if the election by the people would be a better security against corruption it was a matter to be considered.

names advocated for the selection of electors. Election by the house, by the president, by the states, by the people in districts, by electors specially chosen—all had their advocates.

And I venture to say that whoever reads the debates in the light of our history will fail to extract therefrom good and satisfactory reasons for the election made from these various plans. The fourth is, back in that time

Another said the evils which beset the confederacy come from the trifling, as everyone knows, of democracy. "So the plan was finally agreed upon that the executive, the judiciary, and the senate should be chosen, not directly by the people, but through agencies remove or two from them.

Fidelity in an elector is a thing unknown and scarcely thought of in our story. Its occurrence is so strain government's most dangerously at its weakest point. Why should not the election as to senators be by plurality? The most satisfactory results have been realized when it has been

The last senatorial election in Ohio was another case in point. Mr. Sherman was elected as much voted for in the election in 1885 for senator by the republicans of the state as Mr. Foraker was for governor. So it was in Ind-

n. Other instances might be cited. I do not hesitate to say that such electoral elections—that is, those where the candidates are before the people at the election of the legislature, which is to simply record their desires—are altogether more satisfactory in results and in every other way.

There is not time.
There is a reason aside for this thing. Of course I refer to the power of use of money. It, in notable instances of our recent history, has determined the election of senators. I do care to elaborate on that. The subject is in every mind. It is also in everybody's knowledge how difficult it is to say impossible. It is under the present system to apply the effective popular election would be a jump in that direction. In my opinion, however, does your amendment differ

"I think it is more specific. It tends to be self-executing. I give congress a right to fix the terms of the first senators from new states in order that the constitutional idea that one-third of a senate being elected every two years may be conformed to as nearly possible.

"I have just thrown in the amendment as so much of a contribution to a general subject. It may possibly Temperance legislation is seldom evaded by a genuine novelty, but a measure is being advocated in Virginia which is an exception to the rule. It is proposed to prohibit the sale of intoxicants to all who are not licensed liquor-drinkers. The measure is to cost $1 a year and be non-transferable, and the proceeds are to go to the school fund.

The March fairs cost the United States and Canada $10,400,000, or $37,400 above the average in that month for a dozen years past. At this rate the loss of 1887 will exceed that of 1888, which was an exceptional year, as the income of companies seem to be in good condition and continue to pay dividends.

One of the witnesses in the investigation of the Bessie bridge disaster near Boston says that he noticed the railroad company some years ago indications of weakness in the bridge, and on a second notification, was told that he was borrowing a good deal of trouble about that bridge, and he was afraid to ride behind better walk.

Since the formation of the new "triple alliance" Germany, Austria and Italy have each come to a definite understanding with the Vatican. At no period during the present century has such uniform good will between the Pope and the European Powers been manifested, and there really seems to be a revival, to some extent, of the temporal power of the Pope.

Mr. Colt, owner of the yacht Dauntless, and Capt. Samuels, her commander during the late ocean race, are "out." Capt. Samuels has left the yacht at Queenstown, accusing Mr. Colt of unwarrantable interference and grossly ungentlemanly conduct during the trip, and says that the Dauntless would have won. Capt. Samuels is one of the oldest and best sailors in America, and it does not seem likely that he would make such charges hastily or purposely incur Mr. Colt's displeasure by failing to do all in his power to bring his vessel in first.

The experiment of pouring oil on the troubled waters, in a gale at sea, has been so frequently tried, and always with success, it is surprising every vessel is not provided with such a simple safeguard against disaster. In the recent yacht race across the Atlantic both craft experienced the fury of this magic power of the waves, and it is not at all unlikely that the Dauntless would have succumbed to the fury of the hurricane, had it not been for the smooth surface caused by the timely dripping of oil to leeward, making an undisturbed spot in the midst of a raging sea, in which the yacht rode with comparative ease. The effect in the case of the Coronet was so marked, as her swift flight across the waves prevented her from benefiting by the calming power of this wonderful agent.

Some thirty-five of the national banks of New York brought suit against the city to restrain the collection of taxes assessed upon the shares of stock of those banks. The question raised by the case is whether or not the system of taxes enforced in the State of New York is in opposition to section 5,219 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which requires that the taxation of national banks shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of said State. The Supreme Court of the United States has just answered the question in the negative and affirms the decision of the court below in favor of the State. Consequently, the applicant is not entitled to the relief prayed for, and the decree of the circuit court is affirmed. Taxes to the amount of more than $2,000,000 are involved in this decision, and the national bank stock affected by it amounts to par value to more than $80,000,000.

A United States Senator states that just before the adjournment of the last Congress, he received a bill from a constituent, proposing to provide for the payment, with interest, of the money expended by every man drafted in the war in securing a substitute. The author of the bill says: "Those who were compelled to secure substitutes were necessarily obliged to pay out from $100 to $500 from their private resources, and although they made this sacrifice for the good of the country, they cannot get a pension. Many of these drafted men, he wrote, who never went into the war, are now in straightened circumstances, and that the money advanced for the payment of a substitute would be a great help to those suffering for the necessities of life." The Senator has not yet decided to present the bill to Congress at the next session, and the absurdity of the proposition leads to the impression that it was intended to ridicule other pension propositions which may have been extravagant.

INDUSTRIAL BRIEFINGS.

Dr. Wiley, chemist to the department of agriculture, writes: Occasionally reports are made which lead us to believe that evil effects may sometimes follow the use of sorghum as a fodder. Generally any such injury is attributed to the poor condition in which the fodder is fed. Two French chemists, Berthelot and Andrieu, have lately shown that the lower part of the sorghum contains enough nitrates to make its use objectionable. It has been estimated that in one hundred pounds of sorghum as much as six ounces of nitrates are found. Since these nitrates are mostly in the lower part of the stalk it is recommended to cut sorghum rather high when it is to be used for fodder. By observing this precaution and also selecting that when sorghum is preserved in a silo it is fed in good condition, no danger need be apprehended.

The cause of the fertility of the soil in trees by bending the twigs at an acute angle, has been investigated by Professor Sorner. He finds that the bark on the lower surface of the twig, below the bend, is thrown into transverse folds, here and there the bark is torn. New woody tissue is formed in these cavities, which is filled with starch grains, and after this there is a formation of new woody tissue of a normal character, but always thicker than that elsewhere; especially on the convex upper surface. THE FLEETING COOK.

Here is a story on a certain class of mistresses—a class that is not numerous, but is peculiar to the ranks of the "vulgar rich" who are so scorchingly strange to Buffalo, her husband an army officer, ordered her on special duty. She at once breaks into home-keeping and deems herself fortunate in securing a really good cook. One morning while reflecting upon her luck in finding such a kitchen treasure, she is stronger in a strange place—she is a fine establishment—splendid sleigh, fine horses, swell coachman—drive up to her door. From the sleigh steps out a very handsome specimen of womanhood, elegantly costumed. Our army woman, suspecting that she is to be introduced to a kitchen treasure, she is stronger in a strange place—she is a fine establishment—splendid sleigh, fine horses, swell coachman—drive up to her door. THE CONCERT. Although the weather was unpropitious, yet a large and selected audience filled Concert Hall on Monday Evening to its utmost capacity. The programme was strictly carried out, and the people treated to a musical entertainment that was first class in every respect.

The Overture, Belle of the Village, by the Band was rendered in grand style, and shows that our boys are steadily advancing in proficiency, and now rank with the best in the State. Chaska can justly feel proud of them.

The Concordia Singing Society favored the audience with two songs the Jaeger March, being especially rendered in a happy manner.

Sam Odell in a tenor solo, and the vocal quartette, "Come where my love lies Dreaming" by Odell, Ehrmanntraut, Kosbach and Henk, were gems of the evening, and were loudly applauded, as were also Miss E. L. Smith and Mr. Rosbach in the vocal duet, "Cheerfulness."

The violin solo by Mr. C. T. Smith, shows that Mr. S., is a thorough master of that instrument.

Miss E. L. Smith in the vocal solo "Waiting" carried the audience by storm and was encored. In fact we have neither time or space to view in full, but can say that the concert was a rich treat throughout and the Band is entitled to the thanks of our citizens.

The bill granting to women the right to vote in municipal elections was defeated in Michigan.

The people of Pennsylvania are agitating the question of building a state capitol that shall be worthy of the Keystone, and the only hindrance is the unfortunate example of New York.

The total population of the Union, as given in round numbers, is: Males, 25,518,000; females, 24,036,000. The total annual deaths were: Males, 301,000; females, 304,000. In proportion to the population 358,000 women should have died to maintain the same relative mortality with the men.

One of the most marvelous religious awakenings ever seen, is now under way in Cincinnati, under the guidance and leadership of Miss Ida Vornholz, who is said to be the most talented and gifted woman Evangelist who has appeared in the American pulp since the days of Mrs. Jordan, almost fifty years ago.

Archbishop Lynch, of Toronto, has issued a pastoral letter to his clergy, warning Catholics against extravagance in funerals, and protesting against the spending of money on heaped flowers, shaped in eccentric designs, magnificent coffins, and other displays of pomp. This is a most timely suggestion, and the advice can be wisely followed elsewhere, and by other denominations of Christians.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce publishes a complete resume of the tracklaying and railway building of the United States for 1887, showing that there is new track projected amounting to 21,774 miles, at least 14,000 of which is claimed, will be laid this year. There are accounts also furnished of old tracks to be relaid of 18,550 miles. This would require, according to the Journal's estimates, fully 3,500,000 tons of steel rail.

The New York High License bill, so called, which was voted by Gov. Hill had a graduated list of licenses. For towns and villages the fee was fixed at not less than $30 nor more than $150, for cities of less than 400,000 inhabitants at not less than $300 nor more than $250, and in cities having 400,000 or more not less than $1,000 for a general license, and not more than $100 for wine and beer, storekeepers' and druggists' licenses.

Mr. Parnell, in an interview published in the New York Tribune, expresses the opinion that there is throughout England "a strong feeling of antagonism" to the government's coercion bill; and holds that this feeling has been developed in part by the suppression of debate. He believes that the bill cannot pass, and says: "I have not permitted myself to take so cheerful a view of the political situation at any time since the elections as during the last few days."

It is said at the White House that the president has made no plans for the summer. He believes he cannot leave the time very comfortably at Oak View, and has not yet given any consideration to the question of a vacation. It is probable, however, that he will take his usual month in the mountains and may go west for a month. He has received a vast number of invitations from the South: West and is very desirous of visiting those sections, when the condition of public affairs will permit him to do so.

Major J. P. Sanger, U. S. A., contributes a valuable article to Harper's Weekly on the subject of American harbor and coast defenses that some people who are anxious for this country to become embroiled in a foreign war would do well to heed. Mr. Sanger sums up the situation by saying: "There is not in any case comfort in the country from Maine to Slick a single service gun capable of checking for a moment the steady advance of an iron-clad; not one of which would probably draw the fire of the heavy guns of such ships as the Invincible, the Dullio, or the Admiral Boudin."

The Swedish government contemplates an expedition to the South polar region, to be placed under the command of Nordenskjöld, the distinguished Swedish navigator who, with the Vega, in 1879 discovered and accomplished the northeast passage by entering the Arctic ocean east of Greenland, sailing along the coast of Siberia, passing through Behring straits and making his way to Japan. The feat had never been accomplished before, and Nordenskjöld has ever since been famous. His expedition to the Antarctic region will be watched with deep interest. The secret of the south pole is no less solemn and profound than that of the North pole.

From the nine Prussian Universities, 2,682 medical graduates were turned out this year, an increase of 144 over the number last year. Upon a positive world-wide basis, the increase in the number of "saw bones" has been so marked that the old-line physicians have become alarmed and taken to advising young men against entering the overcrowded profession, as the "prospects of doctors are becoming worse yearly." The old saw about there always being room at the top, they insist, is played out. It is now being already overcrowded. It is only a question of a few months before a stampede of German physicians with a medical pedigree will set in this direction to swell the number which American colleges are annually putting out.

DOMESTIC HINTS.

APPLES WITH JELLY.

One dozen apples, pared and cored, 1 pound of sugar. Put the apples in a bowl with water enough to cover them, and let them stand until they look as if they would break; then take them out and put the sugar into a bowl; put the syrup come to a boil; put the apples and let them stand until done.

Four sweet oranges, three eggs, one cup of sugar, one pint of sweet milk, one large tablespoonful of cornstarch. Put in the syrup only the juice of the oranges and the soft pulp cut fine. Mix the yolks of the eggs, a little of the milk and most of the sugar, and stir it all together. Stir this mixture into the rest of the milk which is boiling. Cook like custard. Sprinkle the rest of the sugar over the oranges, and pour the custard over it. Cover the pudding with a soft frosting made of the whites. Brown in the oven. Eat cold.

Mix and bake as for jelly cake, flavoring the dough with essence of bitter almond. Beat one egg light in a bowl, and add to it a cup of sugar. Add to this the strained milk and ground rice of a lemon. Peel and grate three thin apples or other ripe, tart apples directly into this mixture, stirring each in before adding another. When all are in, put into a farina-kettle and stir over the fire until the apple custard is boiling hot, and quite thick. Cool and spread on buttered cake. A nice and simple cake. Eat the day it is baked.

One-half cup of butter, one cup of sugar, 11 cup of flour, one-half cup of milk, two eggs beaten separately, one-half teaspoonful of cream of tartar, one-half teaspoonful of soda and 21 cup of spoonfuls of chocolate. Dissolve the spoonfuls of chocolate in the cream of tartar, in a sauce, beat into it a little of the cake mixture, then beat it into the whole of the cake mixture. Flavor with vanilla, and beat it briskly just before putting into the oven. It makes one large loaf. If desired, darker in color, put in more chocolate.

Wash and drain well one pound of currants, chop coarsely one pound of raisins, chop or slice one-half pound of citron. Beat five eggs and two cups of brown sugar until very light, then add one cup of butter, one cup of molasses, one-half cup of sour milk, one teaspoonful of spices to taste. Stir into this mixture six cups of flour, reserving one-half cup to mix with the raisins to prevent their settling to the bottom. Add fruit.

Put the washed eggs in a saucepan of cold water and let them just come to a boil, then take them up. Or, lay them in a hot tin pan, cover them with boiling water, put the top on the pan and leave them on the kitchen table for five minutes. Drain. Dry on a cloth. Put in one cup of butter, one cup of molasses, one-half cup of sour milk, one teaspoonful of spices to taste. ORIGIN OF THE BALD KNOBBERS.

The Bald Knobbers did not originate in Christian county, but down in Tany, near the Arkansas line. It was originally a band of regulators laid to aid in the enforcement of law, but it went the way of every organization of the kind ever instituted to take the law into its own hands. It was necessary keep secret, and most secrecy the evil-minded members soon gained the upper hand, and the regulators were soon regulating private grudges and arbitrating very privately between quarrelling parties, always against the party who happened not to be regular. They took their name from meeting places of the regulators on top of a knob or knole bare of timber called a bald knob. The organization soon spread from Tany county to Douglas and this county. It spread like all movements in a course with the water of the Arkansas line. It came up Bald Knobbers and soon it was up it came the worse it got, until here in this county the people were absolutely terrorized and afraid, and the saying is, "to say their souls were owned by the Bald Knobbers." Persons objectionable to certain parties in the order were pulled out of bed in the middle of the night and sent to the water with their hands and feet bound with heavy switches and ordered to leave the country. Often times the reason of the visit was given. More often it was not. It came to such a pass that every one was in dread of a visit from the Bald Knobbers, and many of the good people of the county were driven through dark halls and forests of what they could do if they wanted to use their power. The old knobbers were not little worse, and there is no doubt that the Bald Knobbers would have outdone them in their regular proceedings had not the officers of the law been so prompt in their action. The Bald Knobbers first began operations here they were either openly applauded for their work or were allowed to go on with it without protest. They were the only ones who were permitted to do as they pleased, and they were the only ones who were not afraid of the law on their part.

Bald Knobbers are bound by an oath not to reveal anything connected with the organization, to obey the captain or leader in anything he may direct. The oath is taken on the graves of the old knobbers, on the top of some steep knole or in an old cave at midnight. He stands in the middle of a circle of Bald Knobbers, and with their masks on and guns in their hands. Over his head the limb of a tree stretches and on that limb the laws of the order are written. He is made at one end, and the others pull the other end until the rope almost strangles him. Then standing on his tiptoes, with his right hand held up straight, with his left hand over his heart and with a cocked shotgun at his breast, he swears never to divulge and never to break the laws of the order, and always obey the orders of the leaders at any and all times, in any and all things, failing in which he hopes he may be killed dead by the most horrible methods, and then the circle of masked men repeat the words, "Dead, dead, dead, and he is given the hand of fellowship."

The legion to which the greater number of those arrested last week belonged met and initiated members in a deserted smelter, down near Chadwick, a fire being built in the center of the place and the members standing around it in a circle. Many of them were forced to join the order to protect themselves, and others, through fear, were made to join. The Bald Knobbers' proceedings in this county have been pretty well controlled, but they are still dominant in Tany county, where the agents of the State are not so strong. The Bald Knobbers are poor ignorant men, who scarcely realize the enormity of the offense charged against them. Twenty-eight men could not raise $1,000, the fee asked by a Springfield lawyer to be testified without their support.

Dress and Undress.

"Are you aware," said Grinby to Noodles, "that men and women do not go to the theater to see the same thing?"

"That is very probable," remarked Noodles. "But what is the difference in the objects that induces the sex to go to the theater?"

"Why, the difference is, that the women go to see the actors, and the men go to see the actresses, which the actresses do wear, while the men go to see the actresses that dresses do not wear."—Chicago Ledger.

"Julia, did that young man who called on you last evening kiss you just before he left the house?"

"Why, mamma, could you hear?"

"I heard enough to tell you to my own mind. Bless your soul, now, you told you to beware of them. Your conduct is inexcusable!"

"I wasn't to blame, mamma. We were standing at the front door and his mouth was real close to my face and before I knew it—"

"That will do. I see you have no excuse to offer."

"Yes! I have," sobbed Julia. "What is it, pray?"

"It was—awful close to my face—and I—I didn't know it was—loaded!"—Fremont Transfer.

Gardening commands the attention of our thrifty housewife.

Ingrain and Brussels Carpets and Rugs at Burkhardt Bros.

Ferd Pracht is the happy father of a bouncing young son.

G. A. R. Hats, and all other kind of hats at Youngs.

We call attention to the Assignee notice of Hermann Meufels in another column.

Mr. Slocum Jr., of Norwood has a big "ad" in this issue. Look it over.

The village of Watertown has a number of notice of liquor license in this issue. Take notice.

Come and see me while attending court and I will try to show you goods at prices that will please you.

Chas. T. Young.

A lot of personal items are crowded out of this issue, owing to a pressure of advertising.

Our village is crowded with farmers and lawyers. The railroad damage cases draw large crowds of people.

Beautiful, Stylish, Durable are the new spring dress goods. Youngs are displaying and their prices cannot be beat.

The boarding house and sheds for the new brick yard of Hall Bros., is completed, and the shop machine is being put in.

Anton Westref and his new neighbor Mr. Cushman, were in town last week and made our office a pleasant call.

John Koehnen of Laketown, lost a valuable mare last Thursday after delivering a handsome foal. It was a severe loss to Mr. K.

Don't put off buying your China and Glassware until our selection of the cheapest were ever shown here is all sold out.

Chas. T. Young.

Mr. A. Redele of this village has recently purchased a valuable Piano, for the use of his daughter Miss Clara. It is a handsome upright instrument.

Eleven saloon keepers will continue business in Shakopee under the $500 law, and nine will go out of business. Seven or eight will probably continue in Chaska.

Emil Spiltoetzer, is the happy one this time, its a daughter and arrived last Wednesday week. Mrs. S., was very sick, but is out of danger now.

The Swifts Standard Uncle Toms Cabin Co., gave one of their unrivaled performances on Tuesday evening of last week at Hg's Hall. The hall was crowded.

Kossuth Oberles family has increased by the addition of a young daughter. We regret to learn however, that his wife is very sick with lung troubles. We hope to note her recovery in our next issue.

Several of our citizens have had new boats constructed this winter and spring, for use on some of our many lakes during the ensuing season. Conrad Fink has been the architect.

Our old Watertown correspondent C. O. Teas, has been appointed station agent on the Manitoba Railroad at Murdock. The HERALD will keep him posted on Carver Co. news.

Mr. Gottlieb Eder, will be ready to commence baking during the first week in May. He has purchased a new delivery wagon, from the wheelwright firm of Bierlein Bros., and will be prepared to fill all orders by that time.

The village election in Norwood resulted as follows: Aug. Hartel president; Gust. Will, H. Bergmann, J. Finnegan and Peter Eifert, trustees; Fr. Hoeffken, treasurer; R. Elliott, recorder; Aug. Fabel, Marshal.

The firm of Bierlein Bros., wheelwright of this village, are meeting with deserved success. They are first class wagon makers, and are reasonable in their charges and therefore command all the work they can do. Give them a trial.

John Bierstetel has greatly improved the appearance of his store, by ceiling the room, and putting in new additional shelving, and having the interior repainted throughout, making it one of the most attractive store rooms in our village. Call and see.

We would respectfully remind persons driving teams, that the ordinances of this village require them to hitch their teams when stopping in the village. It enforced it would prevent many runways and accidents.

Our village council have had all of the trees in the city park mulched, and we expect to see much improvement accomplished in the same in the next two years. It will be the finest park in the State within three years.

The Omaha depot at Jordan, burned down on Wednesday of last week. It was a large structure and contained considerable freight, which was a total loss to the company. The fire supposed to have caught from sparks.

Carver County will soon lose two of her most prominent citizens. We refer to the Hon. H. R. Denny of Carver, and Matt Simonitsch of Norwood. Both will settle in St. Paul, and enter into the Real Estate business. Our citizens generally, join in wishing them boundless success in their homes.

We are pleased to learn that the Chaska Foundry, Jos. Ess, prop., is already commanding a large business. Several Engines and Boilers, have recently been repaired at this shop, which have given the owners extra satisfaction. They say it is also a great gain over the old way in having to send to Minneapolis to have repairing done. Try the Foundry with your work.

DIED.

At his residence in Chaska, on Sunday night, April 24th 1887, Joseph Winnefroh, of blood poison, aged 59 years.

Mr. Winnefroh, was and old settler of Chaska, having resided in this county since the year 1856, and was well known throughout the County, having taken a prominent part in public affairs, and having held many positions of public trust.

About a month ago he was thrown out of a buggy, inflicting a terrible wound in the head, barring the skull over 12 inches and fracturing the same. Blood poison set in last week and caused his death.

He leaves a heart broken widow, four sons, and five daughters, who have the deepest sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement. The funeral took place from the Catholic Church on Wednesday morning, the Rev. Father Casimir officiating, and brought together a large concourse of sympathizing friends and mourners.

Died.

At his residence in Norwood, on Wednesday April 20th 1887, Fred Klante, of lung fever.

Fred Klante was born in Walsrode, Hannover, Dec. 3d 1847, he came to America 30 years ago, and settled in Illinois, where he lived 5 years, from there he came to Carver County Minnesota, and started with his brother a country store, he had to go frequently to St. Paul with produce, and on one of these trips he broke through the ice at Carver in the river and barely saved himself and the team, through the exposure in the wet clothes he contracted a cold which resulted in the loss of his eye sight. When Norwood was started he went there and started a saloon and has been there ever since, although he was blind, he always was jolly and cheerful and could help himself in most things. About three months ago he became sick with lung fever and died on April 21st 1887, he leaves a widow and two children. His funeral was largely attended, although the roads were in bad condition.

Died.

At her residence in the village of Chaska, on Wednesday afternoon, April 27th 1887, Mrs. A. Naegel, wife of Dr. A. Naegel, of Typhoid Pneumonia.

We stop the press this Wednesday afternoon to make the above sad announcement, and must necessarily be brief. The deceased came to this village last fall and in her short residence in our midst, by her lady like deportment and accomplishments, had endeared herself to a large circle of warm friends who mourn her sudden death and extend their heartfelt sympathy to the broken hearted husband and her motherless children.

Where They Stolen.

George Zanger of Carver, woke up on Thursday morning last, to find the door of his stable open, and his two horses gone, also the harness. The staple of the door had been pried out, giving evidence that the horses had been stolen. He came down to Chaska to give alarm but on arriving here was informed that two horses answering the description of the stolen property, was grazing on the prairie below town; so enough they proved to be his horses, but the harness was missing and has not been found up to this time. The thief has covered his tracks pretty well and will probably escape apprehension.

Personal.

Hon. H. J. Peck was in town on Wednesday, calling on his many friends.

Judge Schaler and Auditor Streukens, visited the cities last week.

Judge MacDonald, Congressman elect from this district, was over making a short call on his Chaska friends on Wednesday. He did not forget the Herald office.

Lucien Warner of St. Paul, the old Chaska merchant was in town last week selling lots and raking in the ducts.

Mr. Zacharis, the efficient miller of the Waconia Mill, was in town on Thursday, and met with flattering success in disposing of his excellent flour.

Jake Radde and Adolph Bureau of Waconia, were in town on Thursday on legal business.

Fred Berreau, of Herron Lake, formerly a resident of Chaska, and who was in town last week renewing acquaintances with old friends. We are pleased to learn that he is meeting with success in his new home.

Dan Shanner, and Herman Meufels, two of the wide awake citizens of Waconia, braved the storm and visited Chaska on business on Friday. They dropped in to say Oh! what nice weather.

A Severe Storm.

A furious northeaster set in on Friday morning, accompanied with heavy rains which continued until evening when it turned into snow and sleet. During the night it ceased and turned cold. On Saturday morning it cleared up but remained cold all day.

For Sale.

The undersigned will sell her house and about two (2) lots, said property being situated in the village of Chaska, near Griggs Brick yard. For particulars inquire of Rev. F. Arndt or Mike Mergen.
